

Training that sustains

A learning environment that helps the environment

Did you know that traditional learning produces 45 times more CO2 emissions than eLearning? Not only can online training help your learners thrive, but it also provides benefits that can help sustain our planet.

Traditional learning

When your learners travel for training, whether it be by plane, train, or automobile, they are contributing to a severely impacted environment.

Each year, 350,000 ink cartridges will take 1,000 years to fully decompose.

60% of the waste produced by educational institutions is paper waste.

Store courses and content in an online environment to completely eliminate paper/printing waste.

Paper manufacturing is the 3rd largest drain on fossil fuels worldwide.

Discontinue the need to print manuals, binders, info sheets, and slide presentations.
